

Crowborough Town Council By-Election, St Johns Ward

To ALL the voters of Crowborough.

ABOUT ME: Paul Adams

My name is Paul Adams. I have strong connections with the St Johns area. My father, grandfather and great-grandfather all attended St Johns school for example. I am married with two children, Holly aged three, and Jack aged one. My wife Helen is a nurse. Before taking over the helm of our family business a few years ago I worked for many years in the environmental sector, including 10 years with the Soil Association, the UK's biggest organic food and farming organisation, having studied ecology at university.

One issue which the Town Council should be focusing its attention is the hideous rises which we have faced in our council tax bills over the last few years. The Town Council should be throwing its weight behind the County Council's campaign to let central government know that enough is enough. Local residents currently pay way above the national average for local government-provided services.

I am keen to protect and enhance Crowborough's 'clean and green' environment and to build on the excellent sense of community that exists in the town. I would also like any development that takes place in the town to be in sympathy with the local environment and history, utilising traditional materials where appropriate. I would also like to see more traffic calming measures in residential areas.

I am against the in-fighting that currently afflicts many town council meetings, and pledge to play a constructive and independent role in council business. I believe that my unique blend of experience in the business and environmental world would be useful on the Council, so please give me your support in this election.

PUTTING ENGLAND FIRST!

The English Democrats Party is a fresh, new, democratic party created by people worried about England's future: with no vested interests.

We are English patriots and we are campaigning for our liberties and for our rights to live as a sovereign nation in freedom and democracy.

Blair's Labour gave the Scots a Parliament, stating that they are a "proud and historic nation" but "there is no such nationality as English" has been John Prescott's response to any demands for recognition of our own proud and historic nation. We reject this discrimination. As a free nation we should be able to make and enforce our own laws.

We want a firm but fair immigration system – like Canada or Australia – with 100% enforcement of Deportation Orders (not the present 7%) and no voting or welfare rights for non-citizens.

We want to make St George's Day a Bank Holiday.

We want a strong, democratic England, united and governed by its own people, from an English Parliament within the UK.

Have you wondered about:

- Is it right that England is now the only Nation within Britain to be ruled solely by the British Government, whereas Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland are now self-governing Nations, within the UK?
- Why were there far more Westminster MPs for Scotland per voter than England until this year despite the fact that they can't vote on Scottish domestic issues?
- Scottish MPs should not be ministers for English only Departments; like Alistair Darling at English Transport and formerly John Reid at our Health Service.
- Why did Gordon Brown, with Conservative and Liberal Democrat support, spend over £1,126 extra in 2003/04 on every person in Scotland than in England, when England has areas of worse deprivation than Scotland?
- Is it proper that, under the Barnett Formula, Scots should now have better education, transport and health care, free residential care, bus passes for the elderly, student grants and no top-up fees; all at the expense of the long suffering English Taxpayer? Is this the real North/South divide?
- Why should St Patrick's Day receive a subsidy of £100,000 from London's Mayor but not St George's Day and why was there a 12.9% average increase in Council Tax for England in 2003/04 but only 3.9% in Scotland?
- Why was John Prescott's first step to "improving Regional Democracy" to grab your County Council's planning powers for his un-elected Regional Assemblies – even though he lost the North-East Referendum?
- Why were "Top-Up" fees inflicted on English students using votes from Labour Scottish and Welsh MPs when in Wales and Scotland it had been rejected?

We say - only a Parliament for England will fairly settle the unfair constitutional mess that we are now in and also ensure that our politicians give proper attention to our Nation's needs.
